3. The category analysis — what guests actually say

Our software classifies mentions by topic and counts them: green = positive, gold = mixed, red = negative. Classification may contain errors.

FOOD & RESTAURANTS

+ Restaurant praised as excellent and reasonably priced
+ Unusual breakfast touches — asparagus, grape juice, classic Danish rye
– Dietary restrictions notified a week ahead weren't prepared for — no vegan alternatives offered

> "we really loved the unique breakfast features like asparagus, grape juice and a classic danish whole wheat bread!" — guest, translated

SERVICE & STAFF

+ Duty manager Frederik greets spa visitors personally with robes and slippers
+ Rooms prepared hypoallergenic and scent-free on request

> "He greeted us warmly, had a friendly chat with us, and gave us our bags with the robes and slippers, instantly making us feel extremely welcome." — guest, translated

POOLS, BEACH & AQUAPARK

+ The jungle-style indoor pool and spa is the reason guests travel here — one couple came from the UK just for it
+ Plenty of towels, fresh water and robes available at all times
– The changing rooms have open showers and little space to get ready, nowhere to dry swimwear, and too few loungers by the pool

> "The pool & spa facilities are fantastic - there are always plenty of towels, fresh water & robes available at all times." — guest, translated

THE ROOMS

+ Suites described as magical, with distinctive design in every corner
+ Spacious rooms in an organic, bohemian style

"Magical Suites, stylish and very interesting designs in every corner of the room and Hotel overall! A gem in Copenhagen" — guest, translated

LOCATION

Honest caveat: Condition & cleanliness, noise levels and value for money are mentioned too rarely in the sample for a statistically honest picture — we don't guess.

5. The price analysis

Tripplo has 62 stored price observations. Among those with a usable price, the typical price was €434/night, the lowest €237 and the highest €836. Booking dates and conditions may differ between observations.

Prices are actual availability prices at check time, not list prices — they vary with season and occupancy.

7. Method & sources

This report was compiled on 26 October 2026 by Tripplo, an independent luxury hotel guide. Its input comprises a sample of 17 guest reviews from Booking.com and, where available, Google, plus 62 stored price observations and public hotel information. Our software analyses up to the first 500 characters of each review. The program then counts the automatically classified mentions by topic and sentiment. The sample may include recent, highly rated and critical reviews and is not representative of all guests. Quotes are selected and translated automatically; misinterpretations and omissions may occur. The report date is not the review collection date. Price observations may refer to different booking dates and conditions. Tripplo may earn commission through booking links, which does not affect the analysis.
